What others said about the 2004
conference in Tijuana:

*"It was truly a landmark conference.
There were profound presentations on the economic, ethical and spiritual dimensions of immigration and globalization."*

Rosemary Radford Ruether, Presenter
Editor of Women Healing Earth

"I've been to more conferences on how we practice our faith than I care to count, but I must say that this was the best in my memory."

Rick Ufford-Chase, Borderlinks
Moderator of Presbyterian General Assembly

"The one week spent at Casa Del Migrante in Tijuana was more crucial in understanding global economic oppression than any seminary class or religious book that can be read on the subject."

Miguel De La Torre, Professor, Illiff S.T.
Author of Reading the Bible from the Margins
